Dear Dan,

I would like to take the opportunity to personally thank the entire American Constructors, Inc. organization for their job performance on the above referenced project.

Under the leadership of Joel Goehner and Phil Ashworth, along with the support staff of Andrew McAlister and others, and the entire American Constructors, Inc. on site construction team, this project has been a successful venture for Snake Steel, Inc. In these trying economic times when subcontractor pricing is extremely competitive and margins are tight, the success of a project, for us, hinges not only on our abilities to perform, but more importantly the competence and performance of the General Contactor; from Joel and Andrew's abilities to coordinate and manage the preconstruction activities from the issuance of the contract, processing of shop drawings, getting timely responses to RFI's, and scheduling, to Phil's efforts in managing the field activities, their proficiency and expertise played a key role in our success.

Although we have a few hurdles to clear before our portion of work is complete, I feel confident in stating that this project has been a rewarding experience for Snake Steel Inc. and our erection subcontractor, RBM Steel, Inc. I can count on one hand in my 20+ years in this business, the number of times one our erection subcontractors has walked into my office and commented that a particular job was the best managed and supervised project that he has ever worked on. Asbury UMC happens to be one of these projects.

I called Joel yesterday to personally thank him. I also felt you should be aware of not only his efforts, but the efforts of his entire staff. The professionalism exhibited by everyone at American Constructors, Inc. has renewed my faith that there are still GC's out there that take pride in their work and the quality of the product they produce; resulting in a successful project for everyone involved.

I look forward to working with your organization again; hopefully soon!

Sincerely,

Kelly Blake
